2022 Important Year-End Information

Checklist for Year-End Documents

Please note that you may receive multiple year-end documents for the same account. We encourage you to use this checklist to keep track of your year-end documents. If you have any questions regarding the delivery of these documents, please contact your Investment Advisor. In addition, some external issuers may amend previously released data, resulting in amended slips being mailed.

Statement of Investment Income

T5/RL-3/NR4/Summary/US REITS/Split Corps tax slips report income earned in the account from dividends and interest. Split shares tax slips are reported separately. Income of less than $50 is not reported on a tax slip but is still reportable on your income tax return. An Investment Income Summary is included with the tax slips and contains details on income amounts in the 'Paid to you' and 'Paid by you' columns.

Statement of Securities Transactions

T5008/RL-18: Cost or Book Value

The T5008/RL-18 Statement of Securities Transaction tax slips report the proceeds of security dispositions that may trigger a gain or loss, which will need to be reported on your tax return.

The T5008/RL-18 contains the cost (Box 20), where available, for the disposition of securities that occurred in your account. The cost noted in Box 20 is based on the information we have available on our records. In certain circumstances, the cost or book value displayed in Box 20 may be blank or needs to be adjusted for tax filing purposes. CRA is aware that the cost for determining the gain or loss may not be accurate and allows for you to make adjustments when filing your return.

The T5008 will report a blank in Box 20 on short sales, including short options. In these cases, there is no cost as no security was purchased. There may be possible future reporting based on future actions that will require you to calculate the cost amount when the short position is cleared.

As per CRA guidelines, we do not report deemed dispositions on a T5008 slip; only actual dispositions with actual proceeds are reported. Certain deemed dispositions may be taxable and should be reported on your return even though no T5008 is issued.

Return of Capital (ROC) Adjustments

Please note that the cost on certain sales or dispositions of investments may not be accurate on investments such as Trust Units (REIT & ETF), LPUs, Split Corps or mutual funds. We will process ROC adjustments as soon as they are received from the issuers of these investments. We do not have control when these adjustments will be received and frequently ROC adjustments are provided after your tax package has been created. Therefore, the ROC adjustments may not be reflected within the reports contained in your tax package. You may need to adjust the reported cost on the T5008 to reflect the applicable portion of any ROC received and reported.

The issuers do not provide ROC information until late March, which is after the deadline for T5008 reporting. The cost amount on the T5008/RL-18 or the book value in the Gain and Loss Report may not reflect the adjusted cost base for the purpose of determining a given security's gain or loss.

Statement of Partnership Income (Limited Partnership Units)

Reports gains, losses and/or distributions from a limited partnership.

Statement of Trust Income (Trust Units)

Reports the details of all Trust or mutual fund distributions, including ROC. There is generally more than one production run and the Trust Unit Summary will indicate if you have any additional Trust units that will be reported in the additional run(s).

Realized Gain and Loss and Foreign Property Reports

If applicable, these reports are mailed separately from the tax package and contain information to assist you in preparing your tax return or the T1135 Foreign Income Verification Statement.

RRSP Contribution Receipts

Reports the amount of cash and/or security value contributed to your RRSP account.

Registered Account Withdrawal Forms

Reports withdrawals and tax withheld, if applicable, from your registered accounts.

Please consult with a qualified tax advisor or accountant for specific tax advice.
